02 33 UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon : "Sport is a language spoken by everybody without discrimination, and it provides a role model for peace and harmony and friendship. It creates solidarity, promotes universality and therefore through sports we can promote peace, harmony and friendship, when the whole world is now going through many challenges and conflicts."

03 14 IOC President Jacques Rogge : " We're going to deepen the relationship, because the UN has 24 agencies and we've signed a memorandum of understanding with each of them, so in each sector, whether refugees, prevention of HIV/AIDS, WFP or Environment, we're going to work very closely, and try to support the UN in achieving the Millennium Development Goals."

03 47 Myrta Kanlard, Haiti Country Director WFP : " It isn't a little thing at all, sports activity. It is required, especially at a critical age like children in primary school age. Children are growing so they really need to have a proper physical activity, like they need to have appropriate food. One without the other, it's a pity, because you really miss the opportunities for children to grow into full adults with full potential."

04 25 Françoise Gruloo-Ackermans, UNICEF representative in Haiti , speaking in French : "When there's a major disaster, children should be a first priority, to try to normalize their situation. So a child has to find his friends, his parents, he has to play, to occupy his mind with other thoughts. So it's always natural for UNICEF to think of games, and sport. In Haiti, the primary partner to work in sport and games is the Haitian National Olympic Committee."
