01:09 SOUNDBITE: IOC president Thomas Bach (English Language)

“It is a great historic milestone for the Olympic movement and we hope that maybe it can open the door to further developments even beyond the Olympic movement and then only history can tell us how this can be compared to other extremely important events for the Olympic movement”.

01:41 SOUNDBITE: Do Jong-hwan, Minister of Culture, Sports and Tourism, Republic of Korea (Korean language)

“We participated in the two days long meeting since the 19th of January where we discussed issues relating to IOC, the North and South Korea. We have made decisions that could be remembered as the highlight moments of the Olympics history today. North Korea has decided to participate in 5 events during the Olympics and is to send 22 players and 24 delegates. Such decisions will ensure that this Olympics will be the most meaningful and successful Games that the world has witnessed. Especially, the two Koreas marching together as one during the opening ceremony and the Womens Korea Hockey team show the mutual understanding between two Koreas through sportsmanship. It is all about peace and unification as that is what Olympics is all about. It will help advance the relationship between the North and South Korea and establish peace between two Korea. The South Korean government welcomes the delegates and players from North Korea and the rest of the world and will work hard to host a great Olympics. Thanks”.

02:53 SOUNDBITE: Kim Il-guk, Sports Minister and President of the Olympic Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (Korean Language)

"I would like to thank the IOC committee members for their hospitality and their efforts to carry out the meeting where we discussed all aspects of the Games. We have discussed all issues that have been addressed in planning of the PyeongChang Olympics during the meeting today. I thought the meeting was very thoroughly organised and well executed. Thank you".
