The 17-year-old won by waza-ari in just over two minutes to condemn the same-aged Ilia Sulamanidze, from Georgia, to silver.

With two bronze medal matches, Turkey's Omer Aydin, 17, and Zsombor Veg, 16, from Hungary completed the podium.

Completing the day's action, Germany's Raffaella Igl, 17, denied Kazakhstan a double gold with an ippon victory over Margarita Gritsenko, 16 in the women's under-78kg competition.

Finalising the medal spots, Metka Lobnik, 17, from Slovenia and Brazilian Eduarda Rosa, of the same age, both were awarded bronze after winning their respective matches.

Buenos Aires 2018 is the third edition of the Summer Youth Olympic Games (YOG) to be held, bringing together the world's best young athletes between the ages of 15 and 18. For the first time in Olympic history the Games will have gender equality, with equal numbers of males and females competing in the 32-sport programme.

Almost 4,000 athletes from 206 National Olympic Committees will be competing for 1,250 medals. The Youth Olympic Games Buenos Aires 2018 feature new sports and many new disciplines and events, reflecting the passions of the 'Game Changers', a new generation of athletes and fans.

The event offers a glimpse into the future of the Games as the new programme will introduce several innovations that will be replicated at the Olympic Games Tokyo 2020.

The first Summer Youth Olympic Games took place in Singapore in 2010. The second edition was held in the Chinese city of Nanjing in 2014.
